

COP21: A Turning Point in Combating Climate Change?

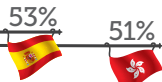

A Survey about The 2015 United Nations Climate Change Conference and Climate Change

Toluna asked members in Australia, Hong Kong, India, Italy, Singapore and Spain about their views on COP21, the recent climate change summit in Paris.

Have you been following the news about the climate change summit in Paris, France?

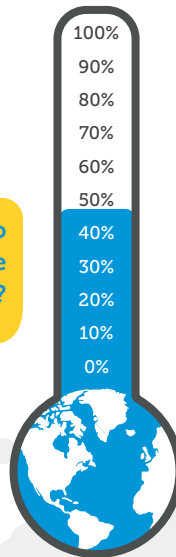

71% of Indian respondents have been actively following the news about COP21, the climate change summit in Paris.

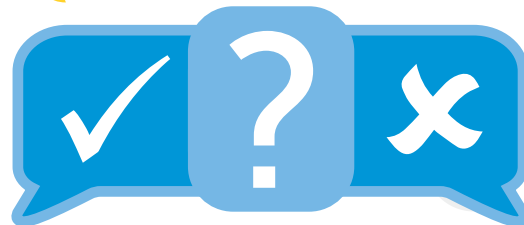

How serious a problem do you think climate change is at the moment?

47% of all respondents in all regions surveyed said they think climate change is a very serious problem at the moment.

Do you think global warming can be stopped at this point, or is it too late?

Respondents are debating if it's in time or it's too late to stop global warming at this point.